

N.I.X.

NETWORKED INTELLIGENCE EXECUTIVE

Guest Guide

For visitors using NIX in guest mode: what you can ask, and what stays private.

Version 2.0.0 · October 2026

Welcome

You're using NIX in guest mode. Talk to it naturally - or type in the terminal at the bottom right. The owner's personal information isn't available to you, and nothing you do can change their set-up.

Figure: Guest mode - the terminal shows GUEST.

Things to try

Say (or type)	What NIX does
"Tell me a fun fact about space"	Answers questions on any topic.
"What's the weather in Goa?"	Weather and forecasts.
"Read me the news"	Today's news.
"Play some relaxing music"	Music and videos in NIX's media deck.
"Search the web for good restaurants nearby"	Web search and research.
"Teach me some basic Spanish"	Lessons on any subject.
"What time is it in Tokyo?"	Time and dates.
"Set a timer for 10 minutes"	Reminders and timers.

Not available in guest mode

- The owner's memory, contacts, email, calendar, phone, messages or files
- Changing settings, installing or downloading anything, or changing NIX

- Anything that needs an approval (sending, deleting, buying)

If you ask for something private, NIX politely says it isn't available.

You get guest mode when the owner turns it on, when you choose Continue as guest on the sign-in screen, or on a copy of NIX that hasn't been activated with a licence.

Handy tips

- Interrupt NIX with STOP or `Esc`.
- Say "stop" to end music.
- The microphone can be muted with MUTE.
- Done? Say "close NIX" (or right-click the NIX tray icon → Quit NIX).

Ending guest mode

Only the owner (or another person with their own sign-in) can end guest mode: they click GUEST and enter the code from their authenticator app.

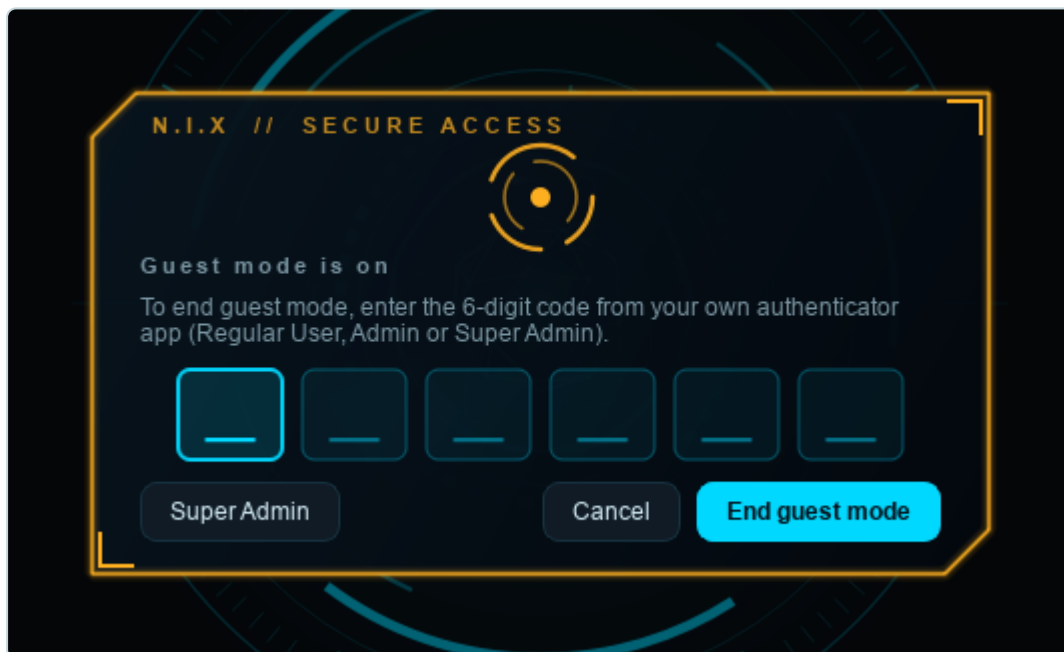

Figure: Ending guest mode needs a person's own code.